

plight of the birds

BIRD enthusiasts, researchers and observers turned up at the launch of locally edited book, Invisible Connections last week.

Sharing a glass of wine and some yummy food about 50 Broome bird lovers got the book got off to a roaring start. It features pictures by Dutch wildlife photographer Jan van de Kam of shorebirds that make Roebuck Bay their home.

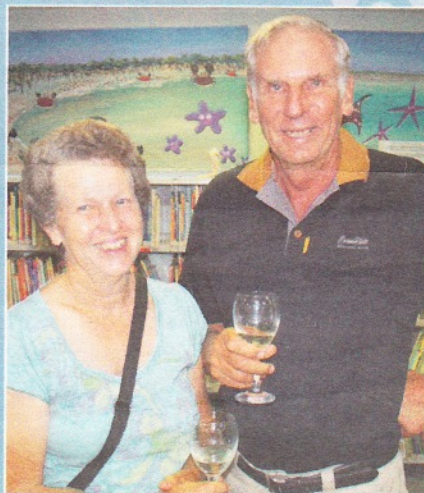

The book is part of an effort to raise awareness of the plight of the birds that migrate thousands of kilometres every year, but are having some of their feeding grounds destroyed by industry.
